

A hotel in evening wear

(Toulouse, France)

Lighting design of a 4-star hotel with 150-room on the airport site. The building, in evening dress in her black and white tuxedo, reveals some of the commas in the facade. While the underside of the groundfloor undulates in a warm red and gold, stands out for its uniqueness. Lighting is inserted between the ceiling panels, and thrilled that matter, while creating delicate shadows games. The facade, made of Corian - a revolutionary material selected as a coating - provides a seamless surface where all games are allowed.

contracting authority
aéroport Toulouse Blagnac architect
atelier King Kong
design-realisation
Demathieu Bard
Construction
lighting designer
les éclairieurs

budget
19 680 000 € e VAT
surface area
8 359 sq.m
competition
2016 - non selected