

Community center in former dockland

(Lyon, France)

Competition for the youth and community arts center (MJC) in the new neighborhood called "confluence" and located in a former dockland. Interior lighting design and illumination of the façades' wooden blades. Our project uses a simple and controlled lighting of the facilities and circulation areas to highlight the building. Lines of colored light reveal the decorative wooden blades on the façades.

The facility is delicately integrated into this «urban show» site, as an entry gate to the port.

contracting authority
spla confluence
architects
tectoniques
lighting designers
les éclaireurs

budget
2 600 000 € e VAT
surface area
1227 sq.m
competition
2010 - non selected