

New offices campus (Rocquencourt, France)

A new offices campus is located in an emblematic building of functional architecture designed by Jean Dubuisson. It is now completely renovated and redesigned to meet the new uses of office buildings: open spaces, lab spaces, showrooms, lobby, places of exchange and services, classified park ... The light subtly accompanies the work of interior architecture of the agency Partie Commune, enhances the identity of different spaces and takes part in the comfort of work while falling within the HQE standard.
