

time for a break in the Part-Dieu's business district

(Lyon, France)

In the centre of the Part-Dieu business district, a former car park has been transformed into a lively, wooded space. The Place des Martyrs de la Résistance has been divided into three complementary sections. To the north, opening onto the street, is a city square that can accommodate the market, lit by twisted columns equipped with fairground terminals for electrical connections.

To the south, next to the school, the façade lighting has been renewed, highlighting the new colourful fresco on the ground. Finally, surrounded by trees, the central area offers a space for relaxation and socialising. Tables and play areas are lit by guinguette-style lighting fixtures projecting a warm 2700K light that respects the surrounding ecosystem. © Guillaume Perret
