

A street punctuated with colors

(Meistratzheim, France)

The main road of this peaceful Alsatian village is punctuated with a church, charming wood stud framing façades and few road junctions. We designed a very simple and low street lighting, both in the lighting levels and the scale sense. The major crosses are bathed in orange tones and the remarkable façades are illuminated by projectors mounted on thin and high poles. The church, made of red sandstone, is illuminated by warm projections.

contracting authority
ville de Meistratzheim
lighting designer
les éclairieurs

budget
1 800 000 € e VAT
completion
2013