

A new RTS building in Lausanne

(Lausanne, Switzerland)

The future RTS building in Lausanne is designed by the Belgian agency Office KGDVS. Located on the École Polytechnique Fédérale de Lausanne campus (EPFL), this new media production centre is intended to house radio, television and digital activities, including news editing and television news. The building is made up of four separate blocks linked by a suspended volume called the «field», which allows for the accommodation of media and technical activities as well as the easy circulation of people and ideas. We are supporting Office KGDVS in the interior and exterior lighting of the entire project.
